In a recent talk, Mr. Kaltenborn, the noted commentator, stated that, while the U. S. Army could get an almost unlimited supply of manpower from the workings of the selective service act, other branches of the service the marine, the navy and the merchant marine) were in desperate need of men. He made the appeal that a selectee be sent where he was needed most and where his qualifications were best for the service, whether army, navy or merchant marine. I agree with him.

The men who are leaving for Camp Shelby next Tuesday are URGED to go by the Circuit Clerk's office and vote before they go. Charlie Worsham will fix you up if you are properly registered. How you vote is YOUR business.

The board of supervisors had a big task this week, investigating to see if the petition asking for an election to banish beer from the county had sufficient names.

Speaking of beer it is my opinion that some of the beer sold has more alcohol than the Mississippi law allows. While I hardly ever drink whiskey, and more infrequently take a bottle of beer, it seems to me that a bottle of beer makes me more dizzy than it should. Maybe it would be a good idea to see that beer of ONLY the proper alcoholic content is sold.

Dear Bro. Cohea: OK.

This is a "fine" war. Boys can't (and I'm glad of it) for ten days or two weeks almost any time. Harry Greenfield and I would have been courtmartialed in the last war if we had even looked like we wanted to go off for ten days.

If you have not registered on the NEW registration books, do so now. Do not wait until next year. Many citizens postponed registration until too late and were unable to vote this year.

I predict that not over 750 votes will be cast in Grenada county next Tuesday.

By the way, the same officers who served on August 25 are supposed to serve again on the 15th.

Befitting the day, we of the GCW labored on Labor Day.

Vote all of 'em out. New ones cannot get the United States in a more hellacious shape than the old ones did. Maybe the new ones will do better. We hope so anyway.

If the United States had spent all of the millions wasted in recent years, upon preparedness, our country would be impregnable. As it is, we have almost been pushed off the earth by the hitherto despised Japanese.

A NEW ELECTION--- AN OLD PARABLE

By HERBERT B. ALLEN

Mississippians have been treated to innumerable political addresses by the numerous candidates for the United States Senate. Everyone in a political audience suspects that the principal ambition of the candidate is to get to Washington to represent himself; but the candidate must strive to make it appear that he really is anxious to get to Washington to represent the audience.

To be elected, the candidate must succeed in giving this impression to every audience. But the candidate enjoys a certain advantage over the audience, for he is repeating the same speeches hundreds of times; while each audience hears his story only once.

Therefore, it is quite possible to have listened with genuine interest to Messrs. Wall, Doxey, Collins and Eastland, and to have received a favorable impression of each of them in turn; and the truth of the matter is that each of these gentlemen has something to his credit.

While each candidate is exceedingly anxious to represent the citizens of Mississippi, each citizen of Mississippi is exceedingly anxious to be WELL represented. These are not ordinary times, and it DOES make a great difference WHO represents us in the Senate.

The average citizen actually has very little impartial information upon which to base an intelligent choice. The candidates are by no means bashful. Their campaign managers are even less bashful. And the editors supporting each candidate praise their choice lavishly and damn the other candidates unmercifully.

So how can the average citizen determine who is best qualified to represent him? At best, he can only trust to the judgment of someone whom he believes has a better knowledge of the candidates and the issues involved.

Two of the senatorial candidates are my personal friends; one is an acquaintance; and I have never met Mr. Wall. My interest in all of them springs from my intense concern with the creation of a New South: a New South that will employ the South's sons and daughters AT HOME; a New South that will be as happy and prosperous as Dixie could be made to be. Therefore, I urgently need a kindred spirit on the floor of the United States Senate.

Last year I was disappointed when Wall Doxey defeated Ross Collins by a narrow margin. My investigation in Washington revealed that, in their many years in the House of Representatives, Ross Collins worked much harder, and obtained much better results for his District, than did Wall Doxey for his District. Like those who follow the races, I like to judge by past performances!

Being a speaker (?) myself, I know something about speeches. Accordingly, I am not interested in what a man claims that he is GOING TO DO. I judge him only by what he HAS DONE. And I have both the time and the opportunity to examine the record of what the candidates have done.

Most of the readers of this publication are familiar with the fact that I work for progressive plans and programs that are designed to benefit the average citizen of Mississippi, and the South. I naturally desire the election of a man who shares my progressive viewpoint—and who will work toward that end.

The man we elect to the Senate may follow one of three courses. He can follow the example of the average Southern Senator, and work exclusively for the benefit of the wealthy and privileged classes of the South, he can represent the interests of both rich and poor; or he can go to the Senate and merely SIT there, representing neither rich or poor, like Wall Doxey.

Primarily, it is because Wall Doxey is a SITTER and not a DO-ER that I oppose his re-election. During his long experience in Congress he served on many important committees, and was given many brilliant opportunities to prove his worth to the citizens of Mississippi. Wall Doxey threw his golden opportunities away because he lacked the power, the initiative, and the power, the initiative and THE ABILITY TO GET THINGS DONE.

Of what use is expensive cottonseed if it is planted in unproductive soil? Of what use are assignments to powerful committees of the House, or the Senate, if membership on these powerful committees produces no result?

Senator Doxey has been in Washington long enough to make an enviable reputation. He did not make an enviable reputation, and at this late date, he apologizes for his errors, and asks for another chance. How many lifetimes does Senator Doxey require, in which to establish a successful record?

James O. Eastland was in Washington, representing Mississippi in the Senate, for only three months. But in that three months he made a reputation—and it was a SPLENDID reputation that reflected credit on Eastland, and on Governor Paul Johnson, who appointed him.

In my Bible, this afternoon (Labor) Matthew, applying the lesson of the of the Talents, in the 25th chapter of Matthew. Applying the lesson of the Parable to the candidates for the Senate, I do not believe that the most ardent supporters of Wall Doxey could honestly claim that he ever began to make the most of his talents, in the United States Senate.

As I examine Wall Doxey's record in the Senate, it appears to me that he took but one talent to Congress—the love of public office, without the willingness to perform the duties demanded of men who hold responsible positions in public life. Wall Doxey lacks one of two qualities. He lacks the ability, or he lacks the willingness to utilize his ability. In either case the result is exactly the same, so far as the citizens of Mississippi are concerned.

Regarding Mr. Eastland, I can make this statement with a full knowledge of the facts, and with a deep sense of my responsibility to those friends who depend upon me to write the TRUTH to the very best of my ability to learn what IS the truth.

Mr. Eastland did not do what was expected of him. He did not merely SIT in the Senate, like a gentlemanly dummy, just listening to the elderly Senators vaporizing. Jim Eastland went to work! The results he achieved for Mississippi amazed his most ardent supporters. His successful efforts actually put dollars and cents into the pocket of virtually every man and woman in Mississippi.

It is such an extraordinary experience for Mississippi to have a Senator who can show a profit in dollars and cents, that if Mr. Eastland is not returned to the Senate, the citizens of Mississippi will be harming themselves, and not harming Mr. Eastland. For I may state most positively that Mr. Eastland is in no danger whatever of going on RELIEF.

Public office has long been a most pleasant and profitable occupation for Mr. Doxey's time. And time is the thing which Mr. Doxey has the most of. And real work is the thing which Mr. Doxey likes the leastest. The citizens of Mississippi have placed Mr. Doxey on Easy Street. If Mr. Doxey wishes to enjoy the social life of Washington, he can now afford to do so at his own expense—for a change.

Most Mississippians are fair minded men and women who really appreciate the value of services rendered to them. On the basis of the ACTUAL SERVICES RENDERED TO THE CITIZENS OF MISSISSIPPI, Mr. Doxey has failed dismally to show cause why he should be returned to the United States Senate.

Judged by exactly the same standard, Mr. Eastland has given a magnificent demonstration of devotion to duty, successful devotion to duty. Mr. Eastland went to Washington with five talents, and returned to Mississippi with five talents more! Well may the citizens of Mississippi consider the record of their energetic, able young Senator, Jim Eastland.

Well may the citizens of Mississippi entrust to the able and honest hands of young Mr. Eastland, the honor and the problems of the New South, in the Senate of the United States.

Well may the citizens of Mississippi say to Mr. Eastland: Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, we [illegible] will make thee ruler over many things."

AN ANSWER IN ADVANCE

to ALL last-minute lies and insinuations reflecting on the character and integrity of JIM EASTLAND

JIM EASTLAND'S enemies are defeated and desperate. They are using every known method to reflect upon Jim Eastland's character and integrity in their futile attempt to elect Wall Doxey!

JIM EASTLAND'S neighbors in Sunflower and Scott counties know the TRUTH about his character and integrity — THEIR VOTES IN THE FIRST PRIMARY "ANSWER IN ADVANCE" ALL last-minute lies:

SCOTT COUNTY—in the Hills—where Jim was raised—gave him a lead over all four opponents of over ____ 2 to 1

SUNFLOWER COUNTY—where Jim now lives—gave him a lead over all four opponents of over ____ 7 to 1

RULEVILLE—where Jim has practiced law for seven years — gave him a lead over all four opponents of ____ 309 to 1

JIM EASTLAND could never have received an endorsement like this from his home people if his character and integrity were not above question!

No Man Will Dictate To JIM EASTLAND

In the Senatorial Race in 1941, Jim Eastland supported Congressman Ross Collins against Wall Doxey, and Ross Collins carried Scott County (where Jim Eastland was raised) and Sunflower County (where Jim now lives).

An overwhelming majority of Ross Collins' supporters are now actively working for and supporting Jim Eastland for U. S. Senator because they know that he is the only independent candidate in this race — they know that no man will dictate to Jim Eastland!

Wall Doxey — Voted FOR PENSION For Senators and Congressmen — Refused to raise his voice against Labor Racketeers and Strikes in War Plants:

Thirty days before Pearl Harbor, a Mississippian wrote Doxey, begging him to DO SOMETHING to stop John Lewis and the strikes in defense industries. Doxey refused, saying, "I am a young Senator and there is an old respected custom with reference to a young senator sounding off." (Doxey had been a Congressman for 12 years). But sixty days after Pearl Harbor, Doxey violated the "old custom" and made his maiden speech in the Senate in defense of a pension for himself. Doxey made this speech while our brave fighting men were dying on Bataan, and the important Naval Expansion Bill was sidetracked so Doxey and his pals could vote a pension for themselves.

F' JIM — You Can DEPEND ON HIM!

Approved by Joe Brown, Campaign Manager — paid for by Friends of Jim Eastland in this County.

JIM EASTLAND Will Be ELECTED United States SENATOR on September 15 Because MISSISSIPPIANS WANT:

—New blood in Washington

—A man who will NOT VOTE for a pension for himself

—A man who will FIGHT the labor racketeers and the profiteers in business

—A man who has shown his qualifications as a statesman

—A man who will fight for economic justice for the farmers. (Since 1919 industrial workers have received a reduction of 20% in weekly working hours and an increase of 80% in weekly pay WHILE the farmers of Mississippi and the South have a much smaller income than they enjoyed in 1919. Jim Eastland will fight to maintain fair wages for industrial workers but he will also fight to give farmers advantages equal to those enjoyed by the industrial workers of the North and East.

—A man who will fight against the snoopers, sneakers, inspectors and supervisors who constantly harass the small business men.

—A man who has a constructive plan for winning the war and the peace.

Little Girls Go to School in Jumpers and Jacket Dresses

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MORE than ever designers are alert to the need of outfitting the little daughters of the household so that they may be sensibly gowned at the same time that they are made to look "pretty as a picture" at play, in the school room and all the day through.

One of the trends that are adding infinitely to the interest of juvenile fashions is definite acceptance of cottons for all-year-round wear. The cotton vogue has developed to such an extent, it is possible now to plan an entire wardrobe in terms of smart cottons.

For back-to-school wear there is nothing smarter than the handsome richly colorful plaid ginghams which are being made up into autumn suits for grown-ups as well as children. Styled after the manner of the two-piece shown to the left in the above picture, these plaid ginghams suit the younger generation to perfection. It is especially gratifying to any little girl's pride to know that her jacketed dress is as smartly and painstakingly styled as those of her elders. The pleated skirt and the jacket, too, have an air of sophistication that pleases fashion-minded little girls. Additional interest is created by using the plaid vertically for the skirt and horizontally for the jacket. The neckline is softened with a notched collar of spanking white pique.

The little girl shown centered in the group probably feels triumphant after her first day in first grade because she could wear one of her new cottons, and of course she just beamed with pride when teacher said her mother deserved an "A" for choosing washable cottons for a little girl's school clothes. This tiny tot likes the jacket styling of her costume, too, for it is done quite after the manner of big sister's best-beloved gingham gown.

School playgrounds encourage rough and tumble activities, but a jumper dress of blue cordurella (fine pinwale corduroy) like that worn by the youngster shown to the right in the above picture can survive almost any hard knocks because of its robust construction and still look neat and in perfect condition after repeated launderings. Pinwale corduroy is certainly the ideal fabric for children's wear. It is inexpensive, it comes in beautiful colors and it is altogether likable for its many attractive qualities. Note the smart styling of this little jumper. It is intriguingly cut in princess lines.

Other trends that are outstanding in the styling of the new fall juvenile frocks include blouse and skirt twosomes, the skirt usually a gypsy-like dirndl, although there is also a big showing of tailored cloth skirts even for very tiny tots. Boxy jackets and skirts also reflect adult styling in that they have a cunning suit effect. Skirts may have a full look, but that is no sign designers have ignored new fabric conservation rulings. It merely signifies an adroit, subtle handling of material to give an illusion of fullness. Put to the test the measurements will be found to be within the inches allowed.

More slacks suits will be worn by children than ever before. They are showing cute models in versatile versions, some of wool flannels, but most of wool fabric blends to take the place of all wool. These come in reds, navies, browns and in combinations of bright colors finished off with dark pipings and other trimming details. They have the cleverest little jackets and sweaters to match.

College Chic

It isn't easy to stretch a budget to include the many different changes that are needed for 'teen-agers to keep up with the crowd. Clever, thrifty girls are learning to "make their own" from modern patterns which are easy to follow. In this way they find it possible to have a really extensive wardrobe at reasonable cost. At the same time, they are feeling patriotic as well as practical, because our government is encouraging home sewing as a conservative measure. The dirndl is, of course, their pet, and here it is in a suit of soft rayon crepe. It goes to the head of the class for casualness and comfort. Note the brief jacket. These new short lengths are the latest news in chic.

That Old Favorite Is Back—Woolknit

There's no end to the smart knitted apparel that is making a record showing for fall and winter. The fashions turned out have that well-bred look, and they include everything from jackets and separate coats to suits and one-piece or two-piece dresses that are the most eye-alluring creations imaginable.

To mention a few highlights, there are wool fleece coats to be worn casually now being shown in the machine woolknit displays. One-piece coat dresses, finished off with grosgrain bindings and grosgrain-covered buttons and gore-flared to perfection, simply fascinate with their clever styling and their rich colorings. The jacket suits have all the fine tailored look that a suit should have.

Then there are clothes for wardens who will be patrolling during cold days and nights, action-free dresses, well-tailored casual suits, practical fleece coats and sweaters of every conceivable type.

Detail Brightens Simple Classic Wool Designs

After being garbed in a uniform for hours and hours at a stretch while on defense duty it is in the natural course of events that women should feel the urge for pretty feminine dress to wear in their few leisure hours. And that is just what has happened.

Merchants having sensed this need are making it a point to supply the demand with pretty frocks for informal occasions. Designers are touching up classic wools with a bit of embroidery or a dash of glittery detail or a contrasting yoke done in pastel sheer.

Does Your Garden Grow?

Recently a clergyman, in the course of his sermon, illustrated his point by saying, "You know you plant roses in the sunshine and heliotrope and geraniums, but if you want your fuchsias to grow you must keep them in the shade."

After the service a woman came up to him, her face beaming with pleasure.

"Oh, I am so grateful for that sermon!" she said, clasping his hand and shaking it warmly. His heart glowed with this appreciation of his labors, but it glowed only for a moment. "Yes," she went on, "I never did know before what was the matter with my fuchsias."

Negative 'Maiden'

The word "maiden" is applied to many subjects besides an unmarried woman, points out Collier's. The adjective is used to designate a city that has never been taken, a plant that has never been pruned, a field that has never been plowed, a sword that has never been used, a male or female race horse that has never won an event and, in England, a session of a criminal court at which there are no prisoners for trial.

One of the commonest causes of constipation is simply this: Modern diets, superrefined, too often give us too little "bulk food." In such cases, dosing with cathartics and purges gives only temporary relief — the trouble comes back again and again. The way to more lasting relief is to get at the underlying cause and correct it.

You can do this by eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily. This delicious, toasty cereal supplies the needed "bulk." It acts pleasantly; works principally on the contents of the colon, helping you to have easy and normal elimination. In many cases, eating ALL-BRAN regularly and drinking plenty of water brings lasting freedom from constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not benefited by this simple treatment, see your doctor.

Paper Clips

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

IT WAS not until Alice reached her office and put down her many packages that she knew she had either lost or left in the bus or train the most important of the lot.

She had sat up, straining her eyes with the fine print of the telephone directory, until after midnight, addressing envelopes to be sent out with samples of her paper clips, and she had stupidly proceeded to lose 500 of them.

Alice felt like indulging in a grand, devastating cry, but realized with her sound common sense that she dare not acquire a red nose and tear-dimmed eyes at the very commencement of her business day. Alice might have felt a bit more cheery as she opened her morning mail.

But from the depths of her gloom she failed to see that glimmer of hope.

A few, nice orders among her letters and the work attendant upon getting them packed up, invoiced and dispatched left her little time to fret about her loss and it was just nearing the noon hour when a young man entered her office.

She had her hat on preparatory to locking the office and going out for her noon breath of fresh air as well as a large cup of coffee and a sandwich.

The young man needed no introduction.

She smiled such a charming smile that young Woodward almost lost his breath and forgot to mention his reason for being there.

However, being an outside salesman and more than accustomed to various types of receptions in offices he visited, he managed to smile joyfully in return and say briskly:

"I found these envelopes in the Fifth avenue bus this morning and being curious, opened up the package. I found the name of A. Caton, Incorporated, and this print of the clip which I suppose your office supplies."

"I happen to be the office, store house, manager, office boy and all the directors," laughed Alice, "and I am tremendously pleased to get those back so soon. I sat up until twelve-thirty addressing them."

"Oh, I say—then I suppose you are Miss Caton." He hesitated for a second, then plunged boldly into his reason for appearing in person with the lost property. "I suppose you are just going out to lunch, but I wanted to make a proposition about this clip."

"Well, I wasn't exactly going out to lunch, but I was going to have some coffee. I have only the noon hour to get out—being a one-man office force. Perhaps—" she smiled at young Woodward.

"Just so. Perhaps you will go with me for that cup of coffee. A pure business cup," he laughed.

And when they sat at the marble counter, each with a steaming cup of coffee with cream floating on top and sandwiches beside them, Woodward plunged into his idea.

"You see, Miss Caton, I am an outside salesman working a few good stationery lines and I feel that I could sell a lot of those clips of yours—commission basis, of course. It looks like about the best paper clip on the market."

"It is," said Alice with conviction, "and I sell millions of them now, but I want to do a lot more. I am just struggling upward at the moment and could do with some outside salesmen—good ones—that is."

"I'm all that," laughed Woodward, "and if you want to save postage on this batch of envelopes, I will take this along with me. It will give me a bit of a start."

Alice laughed at his enthusiasm and felt a great wave of gratitude sweeping over her toward this very attractive and able young man. She had been feeling a bit in need of assistance if her business was to expand and had not known just how to go about it.

"I will have to attach all the clips first," she told him. "I put one of each size on the circular card so that the actual clip is seen and tested in the office."

"That's the stuff," exclaimed Woodward, "no use being mean in business. But it will take you a long time to do thousands of them, won't it?"

Alice sighed softly. "Yes, but—I have to do it. I can do hundreds in the evenings at home."

"Oh, I say—couldn't I help? I have only some uninteresting fellow boarders to spend the evenings with. I'd love to help you. Besides—the sooner we swing this batch into the offices the better."

Alice laughed. The We had come out so unconsciously.

"You are the kind of salesman I have dreamed about, but never hoped to find," she told him with laughing lips.

And Woodward found himself lost in contemplation of a future wherein the girl opposite him played a somewhat more intimate part than that of employer of a commission salesman.

Alice found herself much to her annoyance coloring under that regard—but somehow they both knew that a little paper clip on a lost envelope had given them each other as well as increased business.

JOSEPH SOLD INTO SLAVERY

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 37:23-36.
GOLDEN TEXT—Love envieth not.—I Corinthians 13:4, R.V.

Does it pay to trust God? Is He really concerned about the affairs of men? Does He know the trials and the heartaches of His children? These are the crying questions of today, and they find their answer in God's dealings with men of the past. The story of Joseph has many interesting and instructive phases, but perhaps the most important just now is the truth of our lesson, "The Lord saith . . . them that honor me I will honor."

We first find Joseph as he learns that

I. Jealousy Bears Bitter Fruit (vv. 23-30).

Joseph was his father's favorite and was shown that favoritism in many ways, but it was perhaps most fully expressed in the coat of many colors. This was a luxurious long robe with sleeves, indicating that he was a gentleman and not to do ordinary work of one who wore the sleeveless, knee-length tunic. His brothers deeply resented this evidence of the father's favor.

The dreams which Joseph rather innocently yet perhaps unwisely told to his brothers and his honest report of their wicked behavior fanned the flame of jealousy into a consuming fire which threatened his life. But God, through Joseph's brother Judah and through the opportunity they had to make money out of selling him into slavery, kept him for His own purposes.

May we not learn that the darkest hour may be the time of God's deep interest and directing power. The only way strong men can be developed is by suffering hardness and trial. "God wants iron saints, and since there is no way of imparting iron to the moral nature than by letting His people suffer, He lets them suffer (Heb. 12:11)" (Meyer).

Parents should also learn here the dangers of favoritism among children. It is one of the most destructive of evil influences that can enter a home. It hurts the child who is favored, alienates the other children, and it destroys confidence in parents and respect for their authority. Let's have none of it!

II. Deceit Attempts to Conceal Sin (vv. 31-35).

One of the tragic things about sin is that a wicked act does not stand alone but leads into another sin to cover the first. In the case of Joseph's brethren, their sin against him was covered by deceit. They lied to the father and maintained that lie for years, even though they saw that their aged father was brokenhearted. How callous sin makes the heart of a man!

Yet the very fact that they lied to cover their sin indicates that they were ashamed to admit that they had fallen so low. James Strahan well says: "Evil never dares to be sincere. It always borrows the colors and wears the garb of innocence. It has a whole lifetime of hard labor in keeping up appearances. Hypocrisy is the tribute which all bad men have to pay to the ideal of goodness."

III. God Overrules Evil for Good (v. 36).

It was God's plan that Joseph should come to his greatest usefulness in his place of authority in Egypt, so He directed the sale of the young slave into the home of Potiphar, a leading officer of Pharaoh.

The story of Joseph's life in Potiphar's house is one of unusual interest. Faithfulness to duty, loyalty to God and truth led to shifting experiences of imprisonment and of favor, but ultimately he came out into the place of leadership in the government of Egypt. In this place God marvelously blessed and used him.

Since the matter of the relation of men to government is so much before us these days, it will be well to note that Scripture holds a very exalted view of the public servant. Paul says we are to "be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God" (Rom. 13:1). The Bible clearly teaches that every governmental agency and every public servant, from the policeman on the beat to the President in the White House, is only permitted to exercise authority over his fellowmen because God has ordained that there should be such government. Clear it is that every right-thinking official of state and nation should be humble, teachable, discreet, and wise in the exercise of his power, and God-fearing in the discharge of his responsibility.

Our lesson provides unusual opportunity for the teaching of proper family relationships, the right attitude toward government, as well as the blessed assurance and confidence which we may have who have intrusted our lives into the hands of God.

Porter Knew Where To Get Quicker Service

The young lovers were trying to find some quiet, secluded spot for a long embrace. But everywhere they went there were people, people, people. And the girl was shy.

Suddenly the man had a bright idea. Triumphantly he led her to the railway station and, standing beside the door of a railway carriage as though seeing her off, kissed her fondly.

After the couple had repeated the experiment at four or five different platforms, a sympathetic porter strolled up and whispered to the young man:

"Take 'er rahnd to the bus stop, mate. They goes ev'ry three minutes from there."

NEW EFFECTIVE HAY FEVER RELIEF

Hay fever, which annually causes more sneezes, more inflamed noses and more red, streaming eyes than any other scourge, may have its final big fling this September, all because a Pennsylvania electrical engineer was served a dish of corn meal mush which was entirely too salty.

The engineer, sneezing, and with all other hay fever manifestations, stopped at a hotel where he was served a dish of mush which he considered sending back as it was much too salty. Finally he ate it, however; the hay fever attack lessened, ultimately ceased. Next day he had three meals, all oversalted, and experienced his most comfortable time in years in the "hay fever season."

His analytical mind quickly grasped the possibility that the saline substance in his food was responsible for his relief.

About this time, Dr. E. E. Selleck, a graduate of Columbia University, met the engineer, made notes, and when he returned to his home, began experiments. Today Dr. Selleck declares he has found a certain means of relief for hay fever and is supported in his contention by other medical experts, and a nationally known chemical manufacturing concern, the Hollings-Smith Company, at Orangeburg, New York, has taken over making the remedy, which is called Nakamo Bell.

Describing the experiments, Dr. Selleck said: "After I was sure I had found a means of quickly relieving hay fever through the chloride group, I tested it in the most practical way I knew. I held a three day clinic, to which many hay fever sufferers responded, from ages ranging from 10 to 60 years. Each person was given two tablets with a little water. Some relief came to all within ten minutes. Reports on these cases during the ensuing weeks showed practically a complete cessation of symptoms."

"The Mills Of God"

It is as should be the desire of every real man to own his own home and in the heart of every one lies the desire to own his childhood home, his mother's home, where played in childhood happy days with his little brothers and sisters, where he first knelt to pray at his mother's knee. I was no exception to this rule and through mutations and happy circumstances, it became by good fortune or as I at the time presumed, my good fortune. I came into possession of my mother's home. The flowers planted 70 years ago are still there. The old trees I played under with my little brother still stand, the old rock curbed spring still flows clear and sweet. My father used to make 35 to 40 bales of cotton a year here. The place now is not in such good repair but the soil is very fertile. Many claim it to be the best grazing place in Grenada county. Running water the year round. A valley the full length of the place, the hills which are not high covered with long slim pines. Not a thin spot, nor gully on place. A public road traverses place and is only half mile from main highway into Grenada and located 7 miles from town. Mr. Kirk who places a lower valuation on my property than perhaps anyone else, said the government could not offer less than $7.50 per acre for this place. I have one offer for $5.00, for $6.00 and for $8.00, which of course I would not accept. I do not believe this place can be replaced in Grenada county for $10.00 per acre. I had already made plans and was having lumber cut for two houses. The Government fixed the price on this property at $2.75 per acre. Mr. Wallace, one of the government men, said the orders from Washington were not to consider our dislocation, inconvenience, our sentiment, and not to pay us replacement value. That we were just unfortunate in living in that area. Mr. Lomax, whom I belive to be a most estimable young man told me that Mr. Baker, (he called the name) would love to have given us better values but he had strict orders from Washington not to do so and had to bow to the line. Now as I wrote before, who is Washington if not our representatives? We in the camp area were sold down the river, "so that as they thought" the majority might fatten on our misery. One might argue, we had to have a camp, why not give it to some place that wanted it? Plenty of places did! Or else why not give us who have given our lives trying to have a home at least a fair valuation? We in the camp area are turned out of our homes, many of us without a dime and too old to work for a living. Our harps now hang on the limons of Babel and we weep in sorrow. Our representatives did not do their part in helping us in our dispoilations. We stricken ones are in the rook and mostly penniless but we are not alone. Mr. A. L. Ford has joined our ranks of unemployed. To Mr. Doxey the hand has written on the wall, "Weighed in the balances and found wanting." To Mr. Bilbo there is small consolation in that mournful distiten. The mills of God grind slow but they grind exceedingly small. With patience stands he by with exactness grinds he all."

It is requested that, if you fellows who feel that you have been paid too little for your land in the camp area, and who can show where you were offered less than you recently paid for it, were offered less than a recent bona fide offer, or offered less than the Federal Land Bank loaned on the property, you come by and tell your tale.

Jim Eastland's Falsehood

No man on earth can get madder than a farmer when he finds out he has been duped, deceived, and had the wool pulled over his eyes by a city slicker.

Well, the farmers of Mississippi have much cause just now for a real and righteous indignation.

They have a right to be mad as hell at Jim Eastland who for six months or more has been fooling them into believing that he, and he alone, was responsible for the rise in theprice of cotton and cottonseed last year.

They have finally found out the truth concerning Jim Eastland's ridiculous claim.

Fifteen United States Senators, all from cotton-growing states, have joined in branding Eastland's claim as a falsehood and declare that he had nothing whatever to do with cotton and cottonseed price advances last year.

These fifteen Senators are men of honor who would not stoop to falsehood. They have the honor and respect of their colleagues in the Senate and the people whom they represent in that body.

Jim Eastland cannot answer their flat refutation of his falsehood.

Furthermore, Jim Eastland would be persona non grata if he should, unhappily for Mississippi, be elected to the Senate.

He would be treated with contempt and scorn by all of the Democratic members of the Senate and most of the Republicans, because he has sought to deliberately falsify the official records of that body.

He would not be given any committee assignments of importance by the Senate steering committee.

He would be treated as a pariah, an outcast, a lone wolf howling in the wilderness.

That is exactly what would happen to him, just as sure as the Lord made little apples, loud lawyers, and loquacious liars.

Until Jim Eastland's statement was nailed thousands of farmers truly believd him to be "the savior of the Southern cotton farmer." They accepted the yarn he told without questioning. They gulped down his sucker bait, hook, line, and sinker. They believed him to be truly "a young Lochinvar come out of the West," who would gallantly fight their battles in the council chambers of the nation.

But it is all different now.

The scales have fallen from the eyes of the farmers.

They now see Jim Eastland in a different light—as a man who perpetrated a flimsy statement for a selfish purpose and got caught in so doing.

Lying in politics is common enough, but when a politician is caught and there is no way to wiggle out, he is in a damnably bad fix.—Jackson Daily News.

IMPORTANT!

To the Cotton Farmers of Mississippi:

Thousands of Mississippi cotton farmers have been misled by and have honestly believed the false, absurd and preposterous claims of James O. Eastland, upon which false claims Eastland had tried to ride into the United States Senate. For many months this rich delta planter has been trying to make the farmers believe that what he said or did during his 88-day interim term as a Senator increased the prices of cotton and cottonseed.

Read the statement below in which fifteen of the Senators from the Cotton States of the South repudiate and deny every claim made by Jim Eastland.

United States Senate

WASHINGTON, D.C. September 3, 1942.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

The increased prices received by the farmers for their cotton, cottonseed and other farm products are, in the opinion of the undersigned, due primarily to the efforts of the farmers themselves in sponsoring and working for the passage of laws and farm programs which have been enacted by and through the efforts of their friends in Congress who have labored for years in the farmers' interests. Conditions brought about by the war have also had a strong tendency to increase prices of all farm products.

While we are not taking part in the Democratic Primaries in any State, yet, in all fairness and in response to numerous inquiries, we do not hesitate to state unqualifiedly as a fact that the record of the Congress shows that the claims of any one person that what he alone said or did raised the price of cotton or cottonseed are absolutely absurd and totally unjustified by all the facts of the official records.

Chas. O. Andrews U.S.S. Florida

Lister Hill U.S.S. Alabama
Theo. G. Bilbo U.S.S. Mississippi
J. M. Tunnell U.S.S. Texas
Ernest W. McFarland U.S.S. Arizona
Claude Pepper U.S.S. Florida

No sane person will deny the above statement, voluntarily made by the leading Senators from the Cotton States because these are the men, along with Senator Wall Doxey and many other friends of the farmers in Congress, who for almost nine years have passed the laws and inaugurated the policies that have given to the farmers increased prices in their cotton and cottonseed and other farm products, AND PARITY BENEFIT AND SOIL CONSERVATION PAYMENTS, all of which was done before the death of Senator Pat Harrison whom Eastland succeeded for 88 days by the appointment of Governor Paul B. Johnson.

Every farmer in Mississippi that Jim Eastland has tried to fool with his false claims, who was lead to vote for him in the first primary, should and will resent Eastland's attempt to double-cross him.

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

With only 100 small precincts missing, the score is Eastland, 73,208; Doxey, 55,761.

In a sweeping order Wednesday the OPM extended rent control to other areas, including Grenada, Grenada County and Carroll, Montgomery and Tallaho counties. We will wait and see when the order is put into effect. Rents should not be greater than those prevailing on March 1, 1942.

My luck has turned. Both of my men, Eastland and Abernethy won by large majorities.

I believe Dr. Sharp has been my friend all along, as this is the first election where we did not go up and up.

The Doxey men are to be congratulated on carrying the City of Grenada, if by a small majority. They put up a hard fought losing fight.

Let's forget the election and let the wars of battle heal quickly. A united America MAY prove inadequate to win the war. In the momentous era in which we are living, the election of a Senator is a matter of comparative insignificance.

I did not rest well the last few nights before the election and I finally figured out why. I just could not rest well laying in the bed with Dinners Murphree.

Now that this election is over, let's quit thinking about a governor. In spite of what I may have said, I expect I will stick with Mike Conner, as I have stuck with him since 1923.

Personal to some of our charter members; some of you have not renewed. If your paper shows "8-42", your subscription is "out."

I considered it a rare privilege to give to each of the 24 men who left us last Tuesday a package containing some personal stationery and printed envelopes.

I did not attend the going-away party. A lump forms in my throat every time I attend such an affair, as it does when I hear the bugle sound the mournful "Taps". When I left for the war, I told my parents goodbye at home, and asked them please to stay away from the train.

Horn and Greenfield face a week-end of sin, as there is not enough job work to keep them out of devilment. Help, help, help.

If any of you Doxey fellows want a SMALL favor, like getting a package of garden seed, see me for I think I can arrange for Senator Eastland to send you some.

My married son, Andrew, with a dependent wife has been classed as No. 4. That's strictly according to regulations, and he and I have no kick. In fact, he will probably volunteer before they draft him. I cannot understand, however, why single men of draft age are still unexamined at Shelby, and why some men who have been placed in the reserve have not been called back. It does not make sense to me.

Nor can I understand why some men with independent wives are allowed to stay at home when men, like my boy, with dependent wives are classed as No. 1.

Radio Doxey Bilbo Wells and Red Brisone are still alive.

This is the sorriest issue we have published in many a month. No ads. The old lady moving a dwelling. I feeling badly. Excuse it, please.

Aint they sweet.

If there are any typographical errors, blame them on Dorothy who has been pinchhitting for her mother. If there are less than usual, praise Dorothy.

There should be uniformity in the draft regulations. I know one man who has a wife making as much or more than he does, and who appparently has no more prospects of going to war than some inhabitant of Mars, while my son, who is married and has a dependent wife, is in Class 1. Regulations place my youngest son in Class 1, and he and I are not kicking. However, the same sauce that is good for the goose should be good for the gander.

Our mailing list was opened to receive the name of Pvt. John W. McCormick in the Army Air Corps at St. Petersburg, Florida. Welcome, soldier.

I understand that Dinner$ Murphree ate a hole in Fred Sullen's britches with a scorching letter last week. I have felt a little unrestful being in the bed with Dinner$, but politics make strange bedfellows.

Further Reduction In Phone Calls Essential To War Calls

Until further notice, reduction in long distance and local telephone calls is essential in order to assure vital war calls the quickest possible service.

This announcement was made here today by Group Manager O. H. Longcoy, of the telephone company, who revealed that although there is some evidence of the public's effort to voluntarily ration their use of long distance and local telephone service in response to the Bell System's nationwide appeal for such help, the results are far short of what is needed.

Mr. Longcoy's statement supplemented an announcement made by the telephone company in the summer. The telephone company's statement asked long distance users to eliminate the least necessary calls and to place the really necessary ones at less congested hours; it asked everyone to also make fewer local calls. It is now necessary to request all civilians not to place any long distrance calls at any hour unless the call is extremely urgent, and to ask that every telephone user voluntarily ration his local calls to at least one-third less each day. It is urged that long visiting by telephone be curtailed for the duration.

"This is essential in order to assure at all times the quick service which military and production men must have," Mr. Longcoy stated. He added that unless voluntary efforts of civilians in general result in sufficient reduction of calls to keep the lines clear for war messages, more definite measures may become necessary to make way for war calls on the overcrowded lines and central offices.

"We ordinarily would relieve overcrowded equipment by building more facilities, but we cannot do this now because the necessary materials are going into war weapons. So the solution is for all of us to cut down on our personal use of the telehpome so that Uncle Sam's needs will come first and will find clear lines and clear central office equipment," the telephone manager concluded.

Surprise Birthday Party For Mr. Jim Shaw

Last Saturday afternoon, Mr. J. E. Shaw, Sr. of Graysport, was surprised by his wife with a birthday party in celebration of Mr. Shaw's 76th birthday. Many friends from the neighborhood and from Grenada, and some of the children and grandchildren of Mr. Shaw were present to wish Mr. Shaw many more happy returns of the day. He received enough ties to last him the rest of his life and enough socks to have the ration board sicked on him.

A beautiful cake, prepared by Mrs. Rhodes, of Winona, a daughter of Mr. Shaw, occupied a central position in the room, and this cake was presented Mr. Shaw by Mr. Sam Mims who spoke very truly that Mr. Shaw was not only a good citizen, a hard worker, but that he had reared a number of children who were honest, industrious and frugal in their habit.

Punch and cake were served the guests while Mr. Shaw, hale and hearty and apparently good for another 76 years, beamed with satisfaction at the friendly greetings and at the presence of the many guests.

The GCW regrets that it has only a partial list of those presnt.

"ALL OUT FOR VICTORY" EDITION ENTERING SECOND PHASE

"Through Another Woman's Eyes"

By Mrs. R. A. Clanton

My Dear Mrs. Whitaker:

I am not presuming by any means to usurp your splendid column, which I read each week with interest, however your section under "Housewife" of September eighth inspires me to speak. You say we are the most important people in America, and that we can determine whether this country succeeds or fails, because we hold the pocketbook of the Nation.

Throughout the years there have been words of trust and honor about womankind. "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world" is a familiar saying. Where there is privilege there is responsibility, and this great honor that comprises motherhood is so impartially sung in poem and proverb about us should humble us and cause us to seek to be more worthy of such a trust.

Your petition for beverage alcohol was surely seen with only one eye. It is something less than the BEST for our people, and without any feline pace I must speak. Did you consider "Beverage Alcohol" with both eyes? What is it? Alcohol is a narcotic. Its habit forming. Beer has alcohol in it—enough, in one pint, to get the normal body chemistry off balance. Alcohol confuses blood vessels, paralyzes brain centers, impairs vision and locomotion. There is no food value in alcohol. The stomach cannot digest it, it must pass out through the blood stream. Beer drinkers take on extra weight and puffiness. That does not contribute to the body's efficiency. It is only backed up fluid that the body is not built to use. It is a deceiver in every place it is used.

How about its revenue? The only way to balance the ledger is profit and loss, we will say. Did you ever find out about the country's board bills for the maldidified ones? For the murder trials that our taxes must back up? Twelve out of fourteen murder cases in our district were directly on the debit side of alcohol. Forty dollars only, gets a beer license—credit side. Look at the highway patrolman's problem—sixty-one percent of all traffic accidents alcohol-de-it. How can we figure the lossses on the book from suffering broken homes, poverty, virtue. It just can not be established. Alcohol is an outlaw. One must settle with a profit.

Why do people think they like it and don't have it? Advertising is seductive, persuasive, promotes sales, sells products, the addition of the producer, and the consumer finds beer refreshed. He knows it causes an abandon from realities. Psychologists say those who drink are evading life at 45-18, and so produce a make-believe period.

Why will coaches not allow their teams to have it? They know their enemies. The big leagues go south to give their teams a disciplined workout to win, and they DRINK COAST WATER. Alcohol has been an outlaw since Noah's time. People in all generations, and all walks of life, rich and poor have felt its blighting effect. There is nothing good that can be proven by test history that beverage alcohol can claim. It is an outlaw still. We must not be so gullible as we Americans are accused of being. Look with both eyes and see if you can't see a fifth columnist in this beer.

The sixth of December, 1941, free drinks were served to all soldiers throughout all the island whose harbor is Pearl (Gullible)? Yes we are. We are smart enough to read as we run however, if we will just stay sober. Discipline is the word. Our boys are being disciplined body and soul to fight for us. Let us face facts, let greed and appetite be forgot. Our nation is in peril. There are imperatives for every intelligent person, and may we housewives live up to this great honor that those who have gone before won for us.

I understand forty-two counties in the state have voted beer out, and find it profitable. We can do the same. Let our people have nothing less than the best.

Wade And Starnes Killed At Gravel Pit

Mr. J. J. Wade, of Yazoo City, and Mr. J. H. Starnes, of Drew, were killed last Saturday at the gravel pit from which gravel was being excavated and hauled for work at the camp. An unexpected slide of the gravel bank trapped the men.

The time is not as long as it used to be when soldiers will move into Camp McCain.

The GCW has reason to be gratified in the manner in which the people of Grenada and Camp McCain have participated in the rotogravure publication which is shaping up, and it will not be many weeks now before the issue will be on the streets of Grenada, in addition to carrying its message to many points of the U. S. and foreign countries.

We are particularly grateful to the many contractors and material suppliers at Camp McCain who have supported the issue so fully that already we are installed in printing at least two eight page sections. The coming week the photographer, Mr. Charles Brown of the Squirrel Studios of Greenville and Greenwood, with whom we have arranged to make all the pictures for this work, will no doubt have sufficient pictures to justify sending away for one of these sections to the engravers.

The edition in the handy, convenient and permanent form is a commemorative issue designed to show the mighty war effort that is being made by the people of this section, and will show to the world what we are doing in Grenada and this area the important patriotic parts we are taking to help our country win this war. This should be reason enough alone to cause the preservation of the edition by everyone interested in the country.

This pictorial presentation will also show the various industries, commercial enterprises, homes, schools, churches, recreation centers, farms, etc., in a comprehensive form, and should be especially needed just at this time. It will bring to the attention of thousands who are making investigations which we have to offer capital, new people and industry for further progress and development.

The coming week Mr. George S. Meyers will start contacting the local merchants, manufacturers, and business houses generally for their support and cooperation in this edition. Should we meet with the support from the town's people as we did the construction folks, and we know we will, we should produce a publication that will long be remembered as one of the most comprehensive and forceful ever produced in the annals of journalism in Mississippi.

Mr. Meyers has had many years of newspaper experience on leading journals throughout the Southland. He is a native of the "Old North State".

When he calls upon you within the next week or two, lend him your ear, for he is working with and for this newspaper, and for the best interests of you and the community. Mr. C. C. Cathey of Belzrade Lumber Company, the first local firm contacted, readily agreed to cooperate.

J. B. Perry, Sr. New President C. of C.

Mr. J. B. Perry, Sr. was elected President of Grenada County Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the members Friday, September 45th.

Mr. Perry is to serve without pay as the head of the organization, having agreed to accept the place after a petition signed by many business men in Grenada had been presented to him.

Bids For Water Supply At Air Base To Be Opened

Vicksburg, Miss., Sept. 16—The U. S. Engineers Office here will open bids at 11 a. m. September 19 for construction of water supply wells in Grenada County, Mississippi. The bids will be used as the basis for negotiating a contract for water supply at the Air Base.

Boys Are Appreciative

The boys sent by the Grenada County Selective Service Board to Camp Shelby, wish to thank the citizens of Grenada, who gave us such a hearty send-off on the morning of September 15th.

As we are all too constantly reminded this is a total war in which the citizens who remain at home bear a burden in importance not unequalled to the citizen who fires the gun, and the demonstration of Tuesday last reveals clearly the community aim and purpose between those who are leaving Grenada and those who are fighting the common enemy at home. The civilian attitude towards the uniform, reflected and coordinated as it is by the U. S. O. is heartening to the new soldier.

We thank the GCW Editor, Mr. W. W. Whitaker for the package of personalized stationery presented each boy.

Hungry Hummingbird

Hummingbirds have to eat about every ten minutes during the daytime because the energy from their food is consumed by the rapid beating of their wings as fast as it is produced. In New York recently, six hummers were taken on a 50-minute taxi drive, without food, from a pier to the Bronx zoo, with the result that one died and the other five passed into a coma from starvation.

Wilting Method for Silage Is Suggested

Experiment, Extreme Care Needed to Make It Work

By C. W. BENDER
(Professor Dairy Husbandry, Rutgers University)

In view of the high price of molasses and the scarcity of phosphoric acid for preserving silage, the wilting method of ensiling legumes, grasses and cereals — a method requiring practically no preservatives—sounds good.

The wilting method will work, but it also takes experimental control and extreme care to make it work.

Moisture Content Excess.

Farmers experienced at making grass silage know that mold accumulations, caused by air pockets or air leakage in the silo, often occur even when the silo is filled with material having a moisture content of 72 to 78 per cent.

Yet materials with this amount of moisture pack more readily and develop more pressure than grasses with lower moisture content, and the wilting method calls for wilting down the green material to a moisture content of only 65 to 68 per cent. Thus there is a greater danger of mold when the wilting method is used.

Secondly, some type of apparatus is necessary to determine the exact moisture content of the green material.

How long it takes to wilt the material down to the proper moisture content cannot be determined in advance. One thing is certain: There will be many delays in filling the silo, thus increasing the danger of mold and high temperatures, both of which tend to destroy nutrients.

Fill Silo Three-Fourths.

The silo must be filled more than three-fourths full with wilted green material within two days. The material must be evenly distributed and well tramped. Filling should be continued on the third day, using high moisture grasses or legumes to which a preservative has been added so that sufficient pressure is generated to exclude the air from the partially wilted mass. Delays in filling beyond this period may ruin the silage, a fact which has been learned by many farmers.

Furthermore, the wilting of a green crop destroys carotene. The longer the period of wilt the more carotene is lost, an important consideration in producing milk of excellent quality.

Trap That Hornfly

Dairy cows will not produce at maximum when infested with hornflies.

The flies cause loss in milk production because they suck cows' blood, and their annoyance often causes cattle to refuse to graze. Hence, they do not get their fill of grass which is the best milk producer, and it takes a part of the feed which otherwise would go to production of milk to replace the blood.

Some investigators claim that during seasons of abundance hornflies are responsible for losses of one-quarter to one-half of the normal milk production. Moreover, annoyance by the flies during milking might lead to contamination of the milk with consequent lowering of its quality.

Sprays, which many dairymen use, will keep flies off cattle during milking and for an hour or more afterward. But this does not prevent loss in milk production. However, a cattle fly trap used as a gateway to and from water, feed, or other frequented places, has been found effective for the control of hornflies on many dairies, farms and ranches.

Birth of a Bombardier

Would you personally like to bomb Berlin and Tokyo? From towns, cities, farms, factories and colleges thousands of American youths are answering "yes" and swarming into the world's largest bombardier college at Midland, Texas, to learn the technique.

Scientifically selected to operate the secret, deadly U. S. bombsight, bombardier cadets are trained in 12 weeks to be the "most dangerous men in the world."

Where they are going is a military secret, but—a thousand bombardiers destroyed Cologne in a single night! And Uncle Sam's air force is training at least 25,000 bombardiers!

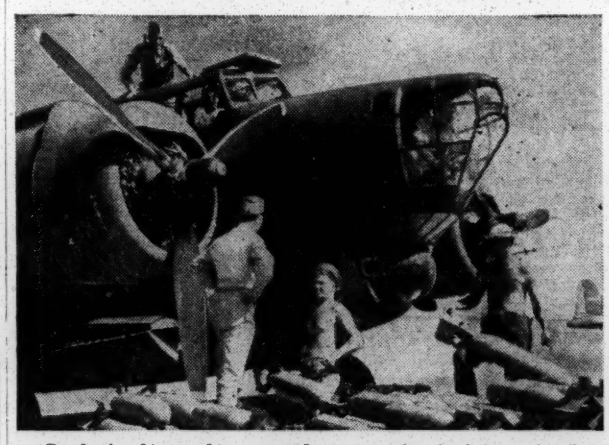
The tyro bombardier becomes familiar with his thrilling job with the bi-motored AT-11 training bomber. He watches mechanics who "keep 'em flying." At the bomb-loading dump, brawny ordnance men carry the kind of bright blue 100-pounders used for practice.

Each cadet drops as many as two hundred bombs during training—the equivalent of forty real raids. A scale model of Tokyo's waterfront industrial section provides a realistic target for bombardment, and really gives the boys something to shoot at.

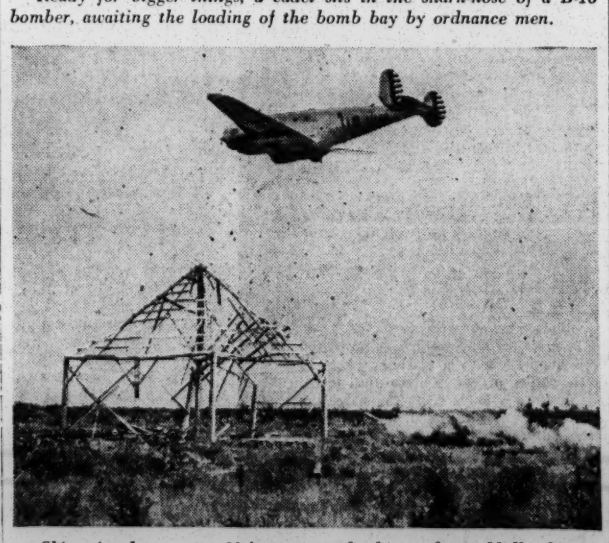
These pictures tell how cadets from all corners of the U. S. become "lords of the bombsight."

Physical fitness is the prime requisite for cadets. Here they use practice bombs for "bombardier build-ups."

In ground school, a group watches an instructor using a model U. S. bomber and models of Japanese warships to illustrate a point.



Ready for bigger things, a cadet sits in the shark-nose of a B-18 bomber, awaiting the loading of the bomb bay by ordnance men.



Skimming low over a 30-foot target shack, a cadet at Midland army flying school sends missiles skimming into the ground whence they ricochet, rocket-like, into the pyramid-shaped structure.

Tyro bombardiers become familiar with the AT-11 training bombers.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 6

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE ALCOHOL PROBLEM: PAST AND PRESENT

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 13:13; 19:23-25; Deuteronomy 32:31-33; Amos 6:1-7.

GOLDEN TEXT—The way of the ungodly shall perish.—Psalm 1:6.

The necessity for using to the limit every resource—man power and material—in this time of national crisis should make every American doubly alert to the devastation and loss which has come (and is coming in increasing measure) to us as a result of the sale of intoxicants.

This is no time (nor was there ever a time) when "men should put their enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains; that we should with joy, pleasure, revel and applause transform ourselves into beasts! To be now a sensible man, by and by a fool, and presently a beast!" (Shakespeare).

Christians—and especially Sunday school teachers—should use this lesson to drive home anew the great lesson of moral accountability, of the importance of man's choice of a way of life, and the certainty of judgment.

I. Man is Morally Responsible (Gen. 13:13; 19:23-25).

Life is not just a careless drifting from day to day, from pleasure to pleasure, from sin to sin. Man was created in the likeness and image of God, which means that he is a personal being, knowing right from wrong and possessing the power of choice. Sodom and Gomorrah drew upon themselves the judgment of God because of their determination to persist in horrible wickedness. What happened to those cities, terrible as it was, is but a prophecy of even greater judgment to come (Luke 10:10-12).

If man chooses to do right, he may count on all the resources of the omnipotent God to uphold him. But if he chooses to go in the way of sin, he must look forward to the judgment of God. It is important to remember that

II. He Chooses His Own Way of Life (Deut. 32:31-33).

Moses contrasts the Rock—Jehovah—in whom his people trusted, and the corrupt standards of their heathen neighbors, of Sodom and Gomorrah; but note it well, each one made his own choice.

One greater than Moses, our Lord Himself (Matt. 7:13, 14), spoke of the two ways, and noted with sadness that many go down the broad road to destruction and but few walk in the narrow way of life.

It is a vital matter that we teach our boys and girls the great and noble spiritual standards of Christianity; bring into their lives the power of God through faith in Christ that they may choose well for themselves and be able to lead a bewildered war-shocked world in the right way.

The need of humanity is great now, but it will be even greater in a post-war world of broken homes, broken lives and broken hearts. We must be ready to minister in the name of Christ.

III. Neglect and Ignorance Are No Excuse (Amos 6:1-7).

Surprise attack is always doubly effective. "Remember Pearl Harbor." Yes, and remember man's defeat in spiritual things.

Satan would like to lull us to sleep with the assurance that all is well. The heart of man is prone to cherish optimistic thoughts; to magnify that which encourages him to take his ease; to keep away the fear of reality by sweet music, good food, and flowing bowl of wine.

The people of Amos' day, to whom this message was given, had come to the point where prosperity had made them at ease, when they should have been actively alert; foolishly serene, when they should have been vigilant and ready for battle.

Who can say that the same is not in all too large a measure true of the people of our own beloved America. Many elements enter into that dangerous situation, but not the least of them is our increasing use of intoxicants. It may shock some to learn that the per capita use of alcoholic beverages has increased greatly throughout the country. The appalling fact is that the city of Washington, D. C., which should in these days set an example of sobriety and sanity, has led the nation in the increase of the use of strong drink.

That way is the way of captivity (v. 7) unless we repent—and that right soon. America needs to awaken to the dangers which threaten its precious liberty—and, we repeat, the liquor question is not the least of these problems. We must win a victory over it soon, or we may find that it has won the victory over us—which may God in His mercy forbid!

Wool-Like Rayon Jersey Is The College Girls' Favorite

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

NEVER has the challenge to do the right thing in buying clothes for classroom and campus wear been so keenly felt as now when war conditions call for wise and careful judgment in acquiring a wardrobe with an eye to the future as well as the present.

While the new fashions are making simplicity and practicality their plea, and while they conform patriotically to every priority ruling, there are at the same time turning out to be about the most flattering, the most charming and much-to-be-admired and desired apparel that ever graced a fall style program. Especially in the college and schoolgirl realm, the incoming styles are so definitely and refreshingly new looking and "different," so fascinatingly colorful and so everything girls want their clothes to be, shopping this season resolves itself into a grand and glorious adventure rather than an arduous task.

The new wide-wale corduroys and the handsomely colorful velveteens are taking the young fashion element by storm but no more so than are the smart and delightfully wearable rayon jersey weaves. They look wool-like because of the refined dull finish but they are so delightfully lightweight they are the kind "you love to wear." All types of jersey this season are a joy to wear, so much so that if there is one fabric that stands out more than another as a favorite for the making of the simple casual daytime frock, jersey is its name. There is, in fact, a bit of rivalry going on between the rayon-backed jersey with its wool-like surface and the new wool-and-rabbit hair type which is recognized as a sportswear leader.

The big "fad" that is spreading out through every campus and in the sports world at large is that of the simple daytime classic done in natural beige colored jersey, styled after the manner of the charming dress centered in the above illustration. Slit pockets and front fullness in the skirt are new autumn style notes that it carries out to a nicety. It is a "victory" style and carries out the war production board's general orders perfectly both in the letter of the law and in the loyal patriotic spirit. In fact, each of the three dresses shown is in accord with L-85 regulations.

The importance of natural beige tones cannot be overemphasized for fall. It is not only in jersey that they flourish, but the new velveteens and corduroys in beige are simply stunning for coats and suits as well as dresses.

A smart two-piece daytime frock done in the prescribed L-85 manner, shown to the right in the above picture, gives a jacket-suit impression which is very fashionable. This two-piece dress is a veritable standby for campus, go-to-town or travel wear.

The dress at the left with the flash of raffia embroidery is charming for "date" duty, and it is in the very foreground of fashion, for there is a wealth of intriguing embroidery being lavished on dresses this fall. The unique thing about the embroidery that enhances this kelly green jersey frock is that it is done in multi-color raffia instead of the usual peasant yarn work.

Milliners are making exotic draped turbans of rayon jersey, some with embroidery and others with long scarf end intended to be draped about the throat.

Corduroy Coat

Here is a coat that is "as smart as they make 'em" this fall. It is a glowing example of the smartness of cottons for fall. You are helping the war effort when you are clad in a coat like this, and you'll be the envy of your fellow students at school if you make your appearance on the campus in a coat as outstanding as this model. Yes, indeed, this coat of beige hollow-cut velet is so goodlooking you certainly won't feel you're making a sacrifice in giving up needed materials to the army and navy. The coat is cut with a soft bloused top and ample pockets in the skirt. Unpressed pleats run right through them. Note that the tie-belt is the only fastening.

'Jewelry' Dress Is an Innovation

Destined to "go places" this fall and winter is the new "jewelry dress" as interpreted in endless ways. Instead of being worn as accessory to the costume, the jewels are actually embroidered on as an intrinsic part of the gown or coat (evening coats especially).

You'll love the new "necklace" dresses. The most conservative are of black crepe with a necklace effect of pearls worked in as realistically as if it were a separate piece of costume jewelry. Other frocks are given a dash of exotic color with glittering multi-color stones worked in simulating a real necklace. Lapel and shoulder ornaments are jewel-embroidered after the same manner.

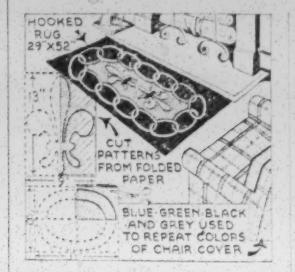
There is what is referred to as the "bracelet dress," for example, which flaunts a gorgeous bracelet of colored stones worked right onto the long sleeves about the wrist.

Dance Frocks Decorated With Embroidery Accents

Some call them "date" dresses, others refer to the dressier types and a new expression coined this year as "off-duty" dresses. At any rate, the dress-up dress is as important as the uniform and the casual frock, more so this season in that the vast program of entertainment now under way for army men on furlough demands that one dress to the occasion.

Lace, being a non-priority medium, is going to play a big role in the party frock realm. Rich, too, with embroidery and with glittering accent are the newer dance frocks. There is something devastating in the simple dress of dainty lingerie type, and nets, piques, dimities will hold good way up until "the frost is on the vine."

ON THE HOME FRONT with RUTH WYETH SPEARS



THIS is another design in the series planned to use up odds and ends of woolen materials to make lasting floor coverings. The design is very old and was made by other women during other wars. Dimensions are given in the sketch for making your own patterns for the links and the fleur de lis. The shaded parts of the diagrams show a half and a quarter of the design drawn on folded paper. The dotted lines show how the pattern will appear when the paper has been cut. The design is outlined on the burlap by drawing around the cut-out pattern with wax crayon.

The rug colorings have been planned to repeat tones in the room color schemes.

NOTE: There are suggestions for preparing hooked rug materials and for making original designs in BOOK 5 of the series which Mrs. Spears has prepared for readers. Book 5 contains directions for a hooked rug that any beginner can make easily and quickly. Booklets are 10 cents each. Rain Tells the Time

We use watches and clocks to tell the time, but in Para, Brazil, they rely on rain to check the hours. It rains so regularly in short, heavy showers that people make appointments "after the third shower," or "the fifth shower," and so on.

Many countries have weather fads. In parts of China, instead of wearing one thick coat when the weather gets cold, they add thin silk coats. So, instead of saying that the day is chilly, a man will say that it is a "three-coat day," and if it is very severe, he will probably call it a "seven coat day."

In the Navy a floor is a "deck," doors are "bulkheads," downstairs is "below," and a cigarette is a "Camel." At least, Camel is the favorite cigarette among Navy men as it is among men in the Army, Marines and Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) And a carton of Camels is their favorite gift. Your local dealer is featuring Camel cartons for service men, now. And now is the time to send that carton.—Adv.
